DEALINGS ON A LARGE SCALE.

TOTAL SALES AMOUNT TO 460,000 SHARES-SILVER

REACHES THE LOWEST PRICE ON RECORD, 59.45. Dealings in stocks were again on a large scale yesterday. The total sales were nearly 460,000 shares. With a few exceptions material gains in prices were recorded. The net advances of 1 per cent or more in some of the leading stocks were: Brooklyn Union Gas 2%. Rock Island 2½. Lake Erie and Western preferred 2. Cotton Oil preferred 2. General Electric 1%. Missouri Pacific 11/2. Burlington and Quincy 11/4. Erie first preferred 1%, Union Pacific 14, Louisville and Nashville 14. Manhattan 14. Cotton Oil common 14. Illinois Central 14. Laclede Gas 1%. Whiskey preferred 1, Erie second preferred 1, Big Four 1. The only declines of consequence were 21/4 in Sugar preferred, and 11/6 in Sugar common. There were any number of stocks which improved between 1/2 and 1 per cent. These included Chicago Gas, Kansas and Texas preferred and common, New-York Central, Susquehanna and Western, Northwest, St. Paul, Southern Railway, Western Union.

There was a one-cent drop in wheat, which was not surprising after the five-cent rise in the first three days of the week. The export business included seven loads and 85 bushels of wheat and four loads of corn here, and seventeen loads of wheat and eighteen loads of corn at outports.

There was another fall in silver. Commercial bars sold at 59.45 cents, the lowest price ever recorded. Previously the low price had been 591/2, which was recorded on January 22, 1895. One year ago (July 22, 1896) the price of commercial bars was 60% cents an ounce. One year ago wheat sold in New-York at 631/2 cents a bushel. This week it sold at 86% cents. Yesterday's price for assay bars was 59% cents an ounce, which was the same as the low record price, and which made the silver in a silver dollar worth 46.11 cents.

A member of one of the large foreign houses which will ship some gold to Paris on Saturday says that, in all probability, this week's shipment will clean up the situation so far as gold exports this season are concerned. The amount to go Saturday will not be very large, although two houses, and perhaps more, will export. Business in exchange is rather slow. There are two opinions on the future of the market. There are those who think exchange will rule low this fall, and these have been the principal short sellers. There are others who think that short sellers. There are others who think that it will not go much lower, and these have bought most of the future that have been sold. It looks as if sugar interests had bought pretty much all the exchange they need at the moment, but the arbitrage demand to pay for stocks shipped from the other side is a source of strength to the exchange market.

Good information is that the American Sugar Refining Company (Sugar Trust) has on hand to-day 425,000 tons of raw sugar, which it has paid for, and on which it has paid the duty under the Wilson Tariff law. This amount of sugar represents nearly $33,000,000, and the company has paid for it out of its own resources, without borrowing any money. It has besides considerable cash resources, so that it may be fairly stated that the surplus cash of the company, now in raw sugar and eash, is at least $35,000,000. The profit to the company on this 425,000 tons of sugar, duty paid under the Wilson bill, should be, under the protective schedules of the new bill, about $6,500,000, or within $1,000,000 of 20 per cent on the common stock of the trust. The annual profits of the Sugar Trust can be assumed to be about $10,000,000, and to this must be added the $6,500,000 to be made this year on the raw sugar imported. The conclusion from these facts is that there must be a distribution of the accumulated surplus in the near future. If Standard Oil people have acquired the large interest in the Sugar Trust, it is fair to presume that the policy in regard to dividends which has governed the Standard Oil Company will be pursued in the Sugar Trust. An extra dividend of $10 a share per annum for several years is a reasonable conclusion, for it would be impossible for any management to continue in control of the Sugar Trust and maintain a surplus of more than the total amount of the common stock.

It is reported that capitalists identified with It is reported that capitalists identified with the American Spirits Manufacturing Company (Whiskey Trust) have organized a new corporation, which will have exclusive control of a product that will largely decrease the cost of feeding cattle. The profits of this enterprise will accrue to the American Spirits Company. It is understood that the company has been experimenting for the last six months in the manufacture of oil and oilcake from corn, and that the experiments have proved satisfactory. A large plant has been erected at Peoria for the manufacture of these products, which are essentially by-products, having heretofore been wasted.

MRS. ANGELE'S ALLEGED DOWER RIGHT.

INTERESTING FACTS TOLD BY JAY GOULD'S HEIRS IN THE SUIT AGAINST HIS ESTATE.

A batch of testimony in the suit brought by Sarah Ann Angell, who declares that she was mar-ried to the late Jay Gould in 1853, was filed at the County Clerk's office in this city yesterday. The evidence is in favor of the Gould heirs, who are defending the suit to recover Mrs. Angell's alleged dower right, and the witnesses were examined be-fore a commissioner at Tarrytown, where Miss Helen Gould lives, and at the Pinza Hotel. Among the witnesses was Mrs. Elizabeth Palen, a sister of Jay Gould, who was born in 1834, and lives with her husband in Germantown, Penn. Mrs. Palen testified that she had three sisters and one brother, Jason, who was known later in life as Jay Gould. He was born on May 27, 1836. The family lived at West Settlement, Delaware County, until the end of March, 1852, when it moved to Roxbury, N. Y. Mrs. Paien's and Jay's mother died in 1842, and their father married a second wife, who died five months later. The father then married a third wife, Mary Ann Corbin. Jay Gould lived with the family until 1856, when he moved to Gouldsboro, and he stayed there until about 1861, when he came to

Mrs. Palen often saw her brother Jay after his removal to New-York, and his wife was Helen Miller, to whom he was married in this city in 1862 or 1863. The witness said she never had heard of his being married before that time. Mrs. Palen identified a school composition on "Honesty Is the

of his being married before that time. Mrs. Palen identified a school composition on "Honesty Is the Best Policy," which her brother Jay had written on April 3, 1850. She also identified a letter which Jay Gould wrote to Dr. A. Hull on October 8, 1852. Jay assisted his father in the store, Mrs. Palen said, and began surveying Uister County in 1852. One Sunday morning in April, 1852, the witness said, Joy said he would cook an Albany steak for them, and it took them all the afternoon to clear up the dishes he had used. He used, she said, while surveying Albany County in 1853, to write home constantly. In 1864 he was ill at home with typhoid fever, and two physicians watched him all night on August 19 of that year.

She said her brother intended publishing a "History of Delaware County and Border Warfare of New-York," and a portion of such a book in his writing was put in evidence.

Erasmus Bennett, of Topeka, Kan., testified to knowing Jay Gould when the latter was surveying Albany County. Gould made his headquarters at Carksville, and stayed there for four weeks, beginning in April, 1853.

Irvin B. Moore, with whom Jay Gould stayed at Albany in 1853, said he and Gould visited this city in March, 1853, and that Gould had with him a model of a mousetrap invented by his grandfather, which he wanted to get patented. They delivered it to the Crystal Palace, where it remained on exhibition. Mr. More said he never heard that Gould was married until he married Helen Miller.

James Oliver, who taught school at West Settlement, swore to rending Jay Gould's essay on "Honesty." Gould was, he said, a quiet boy, and was never anxious for company, but rather of a retiring disposition. "He used," Oliver said, "to do more listening than talking. He was a boy of uncommon intellect and very independent in his way of thinking. He was also a studious reader, and was never rude or boisterous. His penmanship and drawing wre always neat. He never used profane or vulgar language, nor said anything to hurt other people's feelings."

THE FISH PRISON AT GLEN ISLAND.

There is a fish prison attached to the big scal ond at Glen Island where there are no bars keep the unhappy inmates within and no guards ready to shoot them down should they attempt to escape, yet the unfortunates remain held in check solely by fear. To escape and fall to return within a few hours means certain death, and the fish seem to know it. The fact that they do not court death by endeavoring to get away demonstrates that the finny tribe possesses a greater degree of sagacity than is usually accredited

On one side of the pond, under the shadow of overhanging foliage, are two large rocks be-tween which is an opening sufficiently large to admit of a man's hands. This leads to a retreat admit of a man's hands. This leads to a retreat where the fish are safe from their natural enemies. Seals will eat fish dead or alive, but they prefer them in the latter condition. When once their appetite is satisfied the most toothsome fish that swims could not tempt them to eat more. Twice a day the fish are safe to pass out for an hour or more. This is immediately after feeding them at 8 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. They know the feeding hour by the barking of the seals, and then they trail out in a procession, for not more than two or three can pass the opening at a time. They will scour after food and then return to their places of safety back of the rocks within an hour.

SAYS HIS SON-IN-LAW DRUGGED HIM.

NIGHT IN A POLICE CELL

James McClellan, sixty years old, of Boston, has heen living for several weeks with his son-in-law, Henry A. Burns, at No. 360 West Forty-fifth-st. Yesterday he wandered away from home, and Mr. Burns searched all day for him. He asked the aid of the police, as his father-in-law, he said, had been mentally unbalanced by the heat. Last night Burns met his father-in-law at Broadway and Forty-second-st. and asked him to return home, but he positively refused.

While the son-in-law was endeavoring to persuade his relative to go with him a crowd gathered, and a policeman inquired what the trouble was. Mr. McClellan at once appealed to the policeman to protect him from his son-in-law, who, he said, was trying to abduct him. He was taken to the West Thirtieth-st. station, and there he repeated his statement. He added that he had been drugged statement. He added that he had been drugged while at his son-in-law's house, and would rather die than go back there.

Sergeant Tims believed the story told by Mr. Burns, and endeavored to induce the old man to go home with his son-in-law. The old man stuck to his refusal, however, and the sergeant, fearing that he would do harm either to himself or perhaps Mr. Burns, locked him up for safety.

FIVE INDICTMENTS MISSING.

A STRONG SUSPICION IN THE DISTRICT-ATTOR-NET'S OFFICE THAT THEY HAVE BEEN STOLEN.

It was discovered yesterday afternoon at the District-Attorney's office that a number of indict-ments had been lost or stolen in some way from the office. The discovery was only made when a message was received from the property clerk of the Police Department asking what should be done with a valuable diamond pin which had been in the possession of the property clerk since June 19, 1890, and had been taken from Thomas Richardson, a notorious thief. Assistant District-Attorney Unger found the record of the indictment, but upon oking for the indictment could not find it.

It was shown that the bondsman for Richardso had been Leo A. M. Fleidner, of No. 417 West had been Leo A. M. Fieldner, of No. 417 West Forty-second-st., and further investigation showed that a number of other indictments, in all of which Fieldner had been the bondsman, were missing. Records of five missing indictments have so far been found. The indictments cannot be discovered anywhere, and Mr. Unger said yesterday that they had possibly been stolen. Fieldner, Mr. Unger thought, was a professional bondsman.

District-Attorney Olcott, when he heard that the indictments were gone, said, with a shrug of his shoulders: "Well, they're gone. I guess we can't get them again."

HURT BY THE BURSTING OF A WATER-TANK

WORKMEN IN AN ICE-CREAM FACTORY KNOCKED DOWN AND CUT.

A big water-tank, with a capacity of about three thousand gailons, which was placed on the roof of Horion's ice-cream factory, at No. 115 Park Row, burst early yesterday morning, letting down a perfect flood of water on the glass skylight between this building and the one in the rear. A dozen men were at work making ice-cream and packing freezers in the building, when the sudden weight of the water crashed against the skylight, shattering it to pieces. The broken glass, with a heavy wire netting which was placed over it for protection, was hurled upon the men before they could get out of the way, and a number were knocked down, and three were cut about the head and body. They were taken to the Hudson Street Hospital, where they arrived covered with blood. After the house surgeon had dressed and sewed up their wounds the men were taken home by friends. weight of the water crashed against the skylight,

STATEN ISLAND HAPPENINGS. A surprise was sprung at the session of the

A MISTAKE ABOUT EDWARD EGGLESTON. A report was published yesterday to the effect that Edward Eggleston, the well-known at thor, was lying in a hospital at Yonkers suffering from a compound fracture of the skull, and with slight chance of recovery. The injury was said to have been received on Tuesday while Mr. Eggleston was exercising a horse, which threw him. Investigation showed that the report was the result of an error. The injured man is Edwin T. Eggieston, a builder. Edward Eggleston is at Lake George, and is in good health. PLANNED A SENSATIONAL SUICIDE.

A MAN WRITES A MELODRAMATIC FAREWELL TO AN ALMSHOUSE NURSE AND TAKES RAT POISON. Charles J. Fry, a man of middle age, who had no employment and probably was crazy, killed himself with rat poison yesterday in a room at Mason's Hotel, at No. 408 East Fifty-fourth-st When his body was found in the room it was evident that he had planned to make a sensation, for he had placed on a chair, where they were sure to be found, two letters, one addressed a woman with whom he had been in love. a woman with whom he had been in love. The letter to the newspapers declared that information about him could be obtained from Miss Mary Gertrude O'Reilly, a nurse in the almshouse on Blackwell's Island, about whom he wrote some uncomplimentary sentences.

The letter to Miss O'Reilly contained an expression of the hope that his leave-taking would break her heart. It is also asserted that she had been "a perfect lady" at one time, but she had become in his opinion a firt, and the letter ended with "Farewell, queen of falsehood, and cruel, heartless murderess of my life!"
